Smith named purchasing director

Allan Smith, bursar for Tarrant County Junior College South campus, has been named director of purchasing for TCOM, pending approval of the North Texas State University Board of Regents at its Nov. 21 meeting.

Smith, who has worked with the state purchasing system for 13 years, will begin his new position Nov. 10, according to Milton Glenn, business manager.

Smith said, "It is a great pleasure to help TCOM build and grow and the only way it can go is up."

A native of Wichita Falls, Smith has been at TCJC South campus for nine years. Prior to that, he was director of purchasing for the Tarrant County Junior College District and was purchasing agent for Midwestern University in Wichita Falls.

Smith has attended Midwestern University, Centenary College in Shreveport, La. and The University of Texas at Austin. He and his wife, Jeanne, have two sons.

Dr. Reeves to attend Austin meeting

Dr. James B. Reeves, TCOM assistant dean, has been invited to represent TCOM Nov. 11 in Austin at one of six Public Forums on Domestic Policy scheduled throughout the United States.

Chaired by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, the forums are designed to help achieve citizen participation in the review of President Gerald Ford's domestic policy by providing an arena for public fact-finding, for the exchange of ideas and for exploring policy alternatives.

Assisting the vice president will be a team of cabinet members.

The day-long forum will be divided into two major sections with witnesses testifying before a panel of Federal officials during the morning and four simultaneous meetings during the afternoon session.

DR. JAMES REEVES

Rockefeller will preside over the morning session at which eight expert witnesses will discuss selected domestic issues. In the afternoon, the cabinet members will preside over four separate meetings to hear testimony from the public.

Governors and witnesses from Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico and Oklahoma have been invited to participate.

The four areas of domestic policy to be discussed are economic growth, including employment, capital formation and governmental regulation; resource development, including energy supply, environmental concerns and food policy; social policy; including income support policy and health finance and delivery; and community building including transportation, housing, land use and education.

Statements obtained during the Public Forum will be considered by President Ford in preparing his state of the union address.

At press time, Dr. Reeves had not received information from the White House indicating his area of participation in the forum.

Osteopathic Seals Campaign underway

The national Osteopathic Seals campaign is underway and TCOM's Students' Wives Auxiliary is working to make this year's campaign a success.

Suzan Garner, SWA president, said the SWA hopes to raise $1,000 this year which will be sent to the AOA and used for student loans and research.

Information on the Seals program, which continues through May 31 is being mailed to TCOM faculty, students and friends and family of students.

If any faculty have friends and family they would like to have Seals information sent to contact Patti Cole, Seals chairman, at 2805 Creston, Fort Worth. Contributions should also be sent to Mrs. Cole.

United Way goes over the top

TCOM's United Way campaign raised $320 this year, according to Ray Stokes, director of development and chairman of TCOM's campaign. This is $20 above the school's goal.

Stokes urged any persons who have not returned their pledge cards to do so. "It is not too late to make your pledge," he said.

The Fort Worth United Way campaign has raised $6,007,676 through donations and pledges this year.

TV program rescheduled for Nov. 9

If you thought you missed the program "What About People" on KTVT--Channel 11 on TCOM, don't fret. You didn't.

Because of a mix-up at the television station, the TCOM program which was scheduled for 1 p.m. Nov. 2, was not aired.

Ms. Bertha Collins, coordinator of the program, said the show will be aired at 1 p.m., Nov. 9. Featured on the program will be Drs. Ralph Willard, dean; Gustave Ferre, vice president for medical affairs; and Marion Coy, founding president and consultant to the president; and "The Doctor Is In" slide presentation. Moderator of the show is Jerry Thomas.

Regents to meet Nov. 21

The regular quarterly meeting of the North Texas State University Board of Regents is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Nov. 21 in the Board Room, second floor of the NTSU Administration Building.

The regents will discuss the NTSU agenda first, and the TCOM agenda will immediately follow.

Dr. Besso receives grant

Dr. Joseph A. Besso, chairman of the department of neurobiology, has received a research grant from the National Osteopathic Foundation to study "Electrophysiological and Morphological Changes of the Myoneural Junction with Denervation and Disuse Atrophy." The $13,395 grant is for a one-year period from Sept. 1 to Aug. 31 and deals with studying the effects of nerves on muscles.

Dr. Skinner resigns NTSU post

Dr. Gordon Skinner, chairman of the North Texas State University chemistry department and chairman of TCOM's division of biochemistry, has announced his resignation as chairman of the NTSU department effective Aug. 31. Dr. Skinner said his resignation as chemistry department chairman will not affect his position at TCOM.

In announcing Dr. Skinner's resignation, Dr. Jim Pearson, dean of the NTSU College of Arts and Sciences, said, "Dr. Skinner wants to get back to research and teaching."

People, places, things

TCOM faculty and staff attending the American Osteopathic Assn. annual convention Nov. 9-13 in Las Vegas, Nev., will be DRS. RALPH WILLARD, dean; GUSTAVE FERRE, vice president for medical affairs; MARION E. COY.
