'Give my regards to Broadway...'

"Curtain up, light the lights...,"
"Give my regards to Broadway, remember me to..."

These and many more songs which vocalize the feelings of stage performers will soon be on the lips of friends and supporters of Fort Worth Osteopathic Hospital. Beginning May 31, YOU will have your opportunity to step through the Stage Door and enter the theatrical world of glitter and glamour.

How, you ask? Simple, join the growing ranks of FWOH supporters who are planning to participate in a gala musical revue titled "High Fever." Sponsored by the Guild and Auxiliary to FWOH, proceeds from the musical will be donated to the $7.5 million building and expansion program planned by the hospital.

Scheduled for June 16-18 at the Scott Theater, the revue will be produced and directed by The Jerome H. Cargill Producing Organization, Inc. of New York City. The Cargill organization will furnish costumes and script for the production, but the actors and musicians will be you, your friends and co-workers.

Beginning May 31 at a "Meet the Director Party" the Cargill representative will cast the production and give you a preview of some of the acts. Costumes and script for the production will be furnished by the Cargill organization. Matter of fact, many of the costumes flown to Fort Worth for "High Fever" will have been used on Broadway or in Las Vegas.

General chairperson for the 1977 revue is Mrs. Howard Greiner, vice-president of the Guild.

Serving as patron chairperson is Sen. Betty Andujar of Fort Worth. She will be assisted by Dr. David M. Beyer. All "High Fever" patrons will be seated in the Patron Circle, be recognized on the Patron's Page in the souvenir program and be honored at a champagne reception during the intermission.

Chairpersons of the various "High Fever" committees are Mrs. Hugh J. Ranelle, programs; Mrs. J. Thomas O'Shea, tickets; Mrs. Paul Saperstein, talent; Mrs. Paul Q. Proffitt, champagne receptions and cast party; Norman W. Beard, finance; Mrs. Randall C. Perkins, make-up; William Poteet, extra-revenue; Sparky Pearson, ushers; Charles Williams, props; and Carol White, publicity.

Specially designed "High Fever" posters and displays are being distributed throughout Fort Worth and feverish-red bumper stickers will begin showing up around town, according to Mrs. Greiner.

For more information about "High Fever" and to volunteer your help in making the production a success contact Mrs. Greiner at the "High Fever" headquarters at 3601 Modlin or by calling 731-4311, ext. 469.
