COMPLETE HOSPITAL AND CLINICAL SERVICE

An Osteopathic Institution

Hospital of the Month

Mineola General Hospital
(Osteopathic)

P. O. Box 248
Mineola, Texas

The Texas Osteopathic Physicians' Journal is proud to salute MINEOLA GENERAL HOSPITAL as the Hospital of the Month.

The original hospital, built by S. E. Potts, M.D., in 1945 opened with 14 patient beds. In 1950 the hospital was purchased by an osteopathic physician, Dr. B. W. Jones and since that date this hospital has remained an osteopathic institution. Four years later, Dr. J. Warren McCorkle purchased an interest in the Mineola General Hospital and in 1961, Dr. C. W. McCorkle purchased Dr. Jones' interest. Since that date, Drs. J. W. and C. W. McCorkle have operated the hospital on a partnership basis. In July, 1963, Dr. Benjamin R. Beall, II joined the partnership.

A new addition to the hospital was completed early this year which provided a new nursery, delivery room, operating suite and central supply. The total number of patient beds was increased to 35. Each patient room has piped-in oxygen and a two-way nurse call system.

Other members of the professional staff are Bradley K. Flaming, D.O., ACOS, head of the department of surgery; Alton N. Clanton, D.O., general practice; and Earl P. Stuart, D.O., general practice and surgery.

The Mineola General Hospital is the only hospital in a town of 4,000 pop.

The hospital maintains an open staff and any physician licensed by the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners is eligible to apply for membership. Wood County pop. is approximately 18,000 and has 7 D.O.'s and 10 M.D.'s. The adjoining county, with a pop. of 3,500, is without a doctor. There are many good practice locations in and around Mineola. Any qualified physician interested in this area should contact either Drs. McCorkle or Beall.

Texas Reporter Wins AOA Journalism Award

Mr. Blair Justice of the Fort Worth, Texas, Star Telegram has been named one of the three winners of the third annual journalism awards competition sponsored by the American Osteopathic Association.

Mr. Justice's entry was composed of several stories written for his paper to report on scientific meetings, a public forum and several incidents at the Fort Worth Osteopathic Hospital. Justice was also a winner of the first AOA competition.

Plaques and checks for $100 each will go to the three winners, Blair Justice, Brian Duff of the San Diego, California Union, and Betty Kohlman of the Tampa, Florida, Tribune.

Twelfth Annual Educational Seminar Sponsored by Texas G.P. Society Has Largest Attendance On Record

The Texas State Society of the American College of General Practitioners in Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery held its Twelfth Annual Educational Seminar in Fort Worth, Texas on March 21 and 22, 1964. All attendance records were smashed with an attendance of one hundred and sixty seven from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Dr. Nelson King of Tampa, Florida discussed use and abuse of the new anabolic agents. Paul Williamson, M.D., author of a number of general practice texts, was well received. Doctor Williamson toured Fort Worth Osteopathic Hospital and reviewed the film "Doctors to The Stone Age" at a private showing. He was considerably impressed by the Osteopathic Flying Physicians' "Do-Care" program. Everyone had an opportunity to discuss personal practice problems with Dr. Williamson. On Sunday he spoke on the subjects of psychology in general practice, gems of general practice and plugged his own AMDOC program. Osteopathic Physicians were invited to participate by serving the medical needs of communities all over the world through AMDOC. The Texas State Society donated one hundred dollars to AMDOC in appreciation of Dr. Williamson's participation in our Educational Conference.

The luncheon speaker was Mr. Chester Lauck, the "Lum" of the old "Lum and Abner" comedy team of radio and movie fame. Mixed with his homespun humor was a discussion of the American system of government. Such lectures have won him an award from the Freedom Foundation.

There were a number of case presentations in which the patients appeared for direct questioning by the large physician audience. Cases presented included two cases of megacolon, atopic dermatitis, hemangiomas, osteogenesis imperfecta, congenital anomalies, several lung disorders and one severe angioma.

Dr. Vard Nelson of Moberly, Missouri discussed common ear infections, Dr. Wilbur V. Cole from Kansas City discussed neurological problems and Dr. Mel Johnson of Fort Worth discussed the case presentations. Dr. Harry Elmetts of Des Moines presented a number of skin problem cases.

Presiding at the meeting was John H. Burnett, D.O. of Dallas, president of the Texas Society of General Practice.

G.P. Conference Well Publicized

The G.P. Seminar held in Fort Worth March 21-22, 1964 received much publicity. An excellent newspaper story, prior to the meeting, appeared in the March 22 publication of the Fort Worth Star Telegram:

Stricken Medic Turns To Writing Career

By BROOKS KELLER

About a year and a half ago an aneurism of the brain—something very much like a stroke—converted an active general practitioner into one of the most widely read medical reporters in the United States.

The physician-turned-writer-and-lecturer is Dr. Paul Williamson of Bellaire, a Houston suburb.

He will make two speeches Sunday at Hotel Texas during the 12th annual seminar of the Texas State Society of the American College of General Practitioners in Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery.

Today he writes a fortnightly medical bulletin called "Practice," mailed free to 120,000 doctors throughout the United States. "Practice," he says is "about 60 per cent medicine and 40 per cent humor."

Dr. Williamson also writes another semimonthly publication called "Am-Doc," short for American Doctor. It is an outgrowth of the AmDoc program, which originated in December and has grown rapidly.

Put Doctors Overseas

The AmDoc program is a plan by doctors to put American physicians in remote corners of the world where there is at present no medical aid available. Dr. Williamson says the program has three phases.

The first and most popular is called "the Minute Man approach." Doctors volunteer their services for a month in a faraway place, paying all their expenses of maintenance and travel to and from the area. A round-trip ticket to Africa can set the doctor back $1,300.

The second phase of the program involves doctors who go to serve in a distant land for a year. Laymen as well as doctors contribute to the cost of this phase of AmDoc.

The third program is a medical auxiliary program, concerned with nurses and laboratory technicians.

General Practice

Dr. Williamson travels to many of these distant lands himself in order to obtain first-hand reports on rare diseases and medical problems. Next month he will go to Haiti to report on a large hospital there, and to get reports from remote outposts.

He said a general practitioner must know something about everything in medicine, and noted that a "GP" sees medical problems in more intimate detail than a specialist.

The doctor added that he would advise "those medical students who have a desire for the direct thrill of medicine" to go into general practice.

The speaker at the doctors' luncheon Sunday will be Chester Lauck, the Lum of "Lum 'n Abner" radio fame. Lauck is now an oil company executive in Houston.

Washington College Closed

The following is a news story which appeared in the Seattle Post Intelligencer this morning (March 21, 1964). It was an Associated Press dispatch from the state capitol and undoubtedly appeared in daily newspapers throughout the state and nation.

State Board Turns Down Medic Status for Osteopaths

"OLYMPIA, March 20.—(AP) — A long-standing move to absorb some Washington osteopaths into the medical profession was blocked today by a ruling of the State Board of Medical Examiners.

The board, after a day-long hearing, refused to approve the Washington College of Physicians and Surgeons which was established to qualify osteopaths for medical degrees.

The college, which opened with 53 osteopaths as students two years ago, offered a course of instruction on Saturdays over a period of six successive weekends.

Dr. T. Reed Ingham of Olympia, a member of the state board, said the board felt the college did not meet requirements established by law for regulation of the medical profession.

Excellent Location

OMAHA, TEXAS — Located on Highway 67 between Texarkana and Mt. Pleasant. Town pop. 1250. Large surrounding trade area. Fine clinic available, free of charge for first 6 months or more. Two osteopathic hospitals 14 miles away, both registered with A.O.A. Good schools and churches. If interested contract Mr. Charles H. Wright, P. O. Box 626, Omaha, Texas.

Proposals for absorbing osteopaths into the medical profession has become an issue in several states.

Amalgamation has been completed in California. It has run into difficulties in Michigan.

In Washington, the move was favored by the State Medical Association, with a membership of some 3,500 physicians and surgeons, and by a group of osteopaths who have broken away from the Washington Osteopathic Medical Association.

Opposition to any such merger has been led by the Washington Osteopathic Medical Association."

Eight D.O.'s from other states — Oklahoma, Michigan, Missouri, New York, and possibly New Jersey—flew in to take the course, making a total of some 52 D.O.'s enrolled in the College. On March 21, the "students" returned for their second session, but the faculty did not. Instead, the students were met by officials of the Washington State Medical Association who informed them that the school was closed until further notice. Some of the students expressed anger and vowed to continue to seek the M.D. degree. There was discussion as to what would be the next step, but no plans were adopted.

THE LIBEL SUIT FILED by Dr. Hamburger against WOMA, certain D.O.'s in the State of Washington, and the AOA has moved to a point where the contention of AOA that the Washington courts did not have jurisdiction over AOA was denied at a hearing on March 19. The American Osteopathic Association contended that it did not do business in Washington and except for an occasional visitation its affairs were conducted outside that state. AOA is therefore joined and must defend itself with the other defendants in this suit.

Report of Twelfth Annual Child Health Conference

FORT WORTH, TEXAS

by MRS. T. W. WHITTLE

Michael Hassinger and Deanna Cox are observed by speech therapist, Mrs. Kay Freeman, during the Child Health Clinic. Mrs. Freeman was one of two therapists from the Crippled Children and Adults Rehabilitation Center in Fort Worth, who participated in Clinic examinations.

The Twelfth Annual Child Health Clinic sponsored by the Auxiliary to the District 2 Texas Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, March 20, 21, 1964 at the Hotel Texas Hall of Exhibits, had 255 children register for examinations. Even though Tarrant County and its surrounding counties furnished the bulk of children who registered for examinations, some traveled many miles to attend the clinic; one as far north as Ringling, Oklahoma and another as far west as Lubbock, Texas.

This year's clinic proved a success in many ways. The traffic flow of children from area to area was smoother; D.O.

referred problem cases were better spaced, therefore more time for examination and evaluation; also more doctors than anticipated took advantage of the Saturday morning teaching staff that was available.

Statistics once again showed the need to stress dental care. Of the 255 children examined 167 had not seen a dentist.

Many "Thank Yous" are to be extended to all who helped make this clinic the best yet. The hospital guilds in Tarrant County supplied new wrap-arounds for the children. Six optometrists served on a volunteer basis to examine eyes. Four dentists spent many hours on dental exams. Two speech therapists from the Crippled Children and Adults Rehabilitation Center served untiringly.

Then there were the doctors' wives, their friends and many friends of the profession, a total of 57 workers who saw to it that the clinic operated smoothly.

A Professional Responsibility

By GEORGE W. NORTHUP, D.O., A.O.A. Editor

A recent survey conducted by the American Social Health Association and co-sponsored by the American Medical Association, the American Osteopathic Association and the National Medical Association revealed that "there can no longer be any question that infectious syphilis is now the largest and most serious communicable disease problem in the United States."

This study and others reveal sobering facts. Physicians the Nation over are not living up to their responsibilities as servants of the public health. It is estimated that of all the cases of infectious syphilis in the country, physicians have only reported about 11.3 per cent of the cases they have treated. Even more serious than this, contacts for these cases are left undiscovered and continue as focal points for the spread of the disease.

A joint statement issued by the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers, the American Venereal Disease Association, and the American Social Health Association urges the reinstatement of serological tests for syphilis on routine hospital admissions; expanded courses on V.D. diagnosis and treatment for physicians, interns, and nurses; and a crash program to develop an immunizing agent for syphilis.

Whether required by law or not, every osteopathic physician is responsible to the public health to see to it that every case of venereal disease he diagnoses is thoroughly investigated. Contacts, where possible, should be reached and treated. In searching for contacts, it should be remembered that in recent years homosexuality has been a rapidly increasing source of the disease.

The improved treatment available since the advent of the antibiotics is recognized. But, as has been repeatedly pointed out, "drugs alone have never eliminated a disease." In fact, in spite of the improved treatment, the instance of infectious syphilis has increased 448 per cent since the low point reached in 1957. In other words, there are four and one-half times as many cases in 1963 as there were in 1957. These are startling figures. Add to them these two findings: fifty-four and seven-tenths per cent of infectious syphilis in 1962 and fifty-five per cent of gonorrhea occurred in people under 24 years of age. There is no room for complacency or apathy on the part of the practicing physician.

State societies, county societies and hospital staffs should conduct educational programs concerning the diagnosis, treatment and reporting techniques for "the largest and most serious communicable disease problem in the United States."

It is a major professional responsibility. It must not be denied.

News From Michigan

February 25, 1964

A Concurrent Resolution was introduced into the Michigan State Legislature this past week. A copy of the Resolution and of one newspaper story follows:

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 13

A concurrent resolution creating a special Committee on the Financial Status of an osteopathic university and hospital.

WHEREAS, Michigan osteopaths propose the establishment and construction in the near future of a university and training hospital, allegedly to cost between $30 and $50 millions; and

WHEREAS, Professional members of Michigan osteopaths at present number approximately 2,000, from whom, it is understood . . . the total costs for such a venture will be provided; and

WHEREAS, The question immediately arises—with osteopaths representing such proportionately small numbers, as contrasted with other physicians and surgeons in Michigan, now apparently financially able to undertake an enterprise of such magnitude—why cannot teaching facilities and faculties of other branches of the medical profession also totally support their universities and training hospitals; and

WHEREAS, Facts pertinent to both sides of this question are lacking, and in consideration of the value of resolving this matter of such import to the taxpayers of Michigan, it is indicated that there be an immediate investigation by an impartial legislative body which is directly responsible to Michigan taxpayers; now therefore be it

RESOLVED by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), that there is hereby created a special committee composed of 3 members of the Senate and 3 members of the House of Representatives to be appointed as standing committees are appointed, to function now and during the interim between the 1964 and 1965 regular sessions of the Legislature to study the financial status of the proposed osteopathic university and training hospital to ascertain its totally self-supporting capacity, and to consider possibility of a similar self-supporting status for other branches of the medical and surgical professional training centers in Michigan, and related matters, and to report to the Michigan Legislature; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the committee is empowered to subpoena witnesses, administer oaths and examine the books and records of any person, partnership, association or corporation, public or private, which may be involved in the matter before the committee, and to call upon the services and personnel of any agency of the state or its political subdivisions; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the members of the committee shall serve without compensation, but shall be entitled to actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of official duties, the expenses of the members of the Senate to be paid from the appropriation to the Senate and the expenses of the members of the House to be paid from the appropriation to the House of Representatives, but not to exceed a total of $2,500 from each House.

Suggests That MDs Finance Own Schools

By ROBERT A. POPA

Of Our Lansing Bureau

LANSING, Feb. 20.—Observing that osteopaths are planning to pay between $30 million and $50 million to build themselves a medical school near Lansing, a state senator has suggested that perhaps medical doctors should do the same and lift the burden off taxpayers.

Senator Garland Lane, Flint Democrat, and member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, introduced a resolution yesterday proposing to investigate how the osteopaths will finance their school.

SUBPOENA POWER

Information gained from this inquiry then could be applied to Michigan's state-supported medical schools for comparison, Lane suggested.

The resolution notes that there are only 2,000 osteopaths in Michigan. Lane says there are 10 times as many medical doctors.

With osteopaths apparently able to pay for their own facilities despite their small number, Lane asked:

"Why cannot teaching facilities and faculties of other branches of the medical profession also totally support their universities and training hospitals?"

Lane wants to set up an investigating committee of three senators and three representatives who would work after this year's legislative session. Committee members would have the power to subpoena witnesses, administer oaths and examine the books and records of anyone involved.

SUGGESTS HALT IN '72

Lane asked:

"Should we build colleges, pay the students' way through them, set up hospitals and have the doctors then become part of the wealthiest members of society without their feeling any obligation to repay the debt?"

Michigan has an obligation at the moment to expand teaching facilities at its two medical schools, at Wayne State University and the University of Michigan, Lane said. But after that obligation is met—he estimated 1972—"Maybe this should be the end of the burden on the taxpayers," Lane said.

Symbol of Growth

by GEORGE W. NORTHUP, D.O.

The headquarters of the American Osteopathic Association are located at 212 East Ohio Street in Chicago. In recent months, the thousands of people who have passed the building, and the hundreds who have entered it, have been following the progress of the additions being made.

To everyone, these additions have been indicative of growth. To those who know the profession or are a part of it, they have been far more. To them, the expansion has offered yet another symbol of the stable and steady growth of the osteopathic profession.

The addition of the two new floors was made necessary by the expanding service the Association renders to the public and the profession. The additions are particularly pertinent at this point in the profession's history. They symbolize the aggressive progress of the profession in spite of, or perhaps because of, outside forces that seek to destroy it.

Growth is stimulated by stress, and stress, more often than not, is constructive rather than malevolent. The essential unity within osteopathic organization might never have developed if the very existence of the profession had not, in recent years, been under constant challenge.

The expansion of Association activity made the expansion of its headquarters imperative. Its two new floors were officially opened at the time of the mid-year meeting of the AOA Board of Trustees. The new fourth floor adds eleven offices and central filing space. The fifth floor will be completed as more space is needed.

The Central Office building, which has come to epitomize the strength of organized osteopathy, was erected in 1948. It was the first headquarters building owned by the Association. In early years, AOA business was carried out by officers and chairmen in their own offices. In 1922, the Association moved to Chicago, to a two-room office. Between that time and the opening of the "Andrew Taylor Still Memorial Building" at 212, Association business was carried out in a succession of rented offices.

The new building, with a foundation constructed for growth, first had only two completed upper floors and a lower utility floor. In 1952 the third floor, with its Board Room, was finished. This year adds a completed fourth floor and walls for a fifth floor.

This Central Office is the heart of osteopathic organization. Its competent staff, of close to 70 persons, serves as the center for the plans and ideas of hundreds of professional volunteers throughout the country. Its meeting rooms serve as a gathering place for the profession's forces of organization.

The newly expanded Central Office stands as a symbol of our time. It is a symbol of triumph over difficulty, and of steady and solid development.

The Big Truth

Editorial from Bulletin of the Long Island Society of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons

January 1964.

Of all mass psychology techniques, devised to mold public opinion, few are more vicious, more devastating, more demoralizing than the 'Big Lie'. Loud yet subtle, unrealistic yet believable, simply executed yet complex in make-up, the Big Lie was used successfully by political leaders during World War II as well as by some governments today. The technique of the Big Lie is incessant repetition. Whether for denial of a committed atrocity, or to propagate a false farm production statistic, or to profess one's undying love for peace, the propagandists hammer away in unnumbered repetitions, in all media, simple variations of the same theme. It took the Madison Avenue boys some time to realize that it was their own advertising brainchild put to evil uses by the enemy before they began to use the same technique in reverse—as the Big Truth.

Take a basic idea, a fundamental truth, a working concept, a biologic process, a physiologic function such as is embodied in the principles of Osteopathy and you have the perfect beginnings of the Big Truth. Indeed the successes to which Osteopathy can proudly point all stem from the fact that the Big Truth has been told over and over again for some eighty-five years. The fundamental difference between the Big Lie and the Big Truth is embodied in the words themselves. For no matter how long or how often the Big Lie is put forward to the public, even in the guise of truth, in a very short time it will be unmasked for the lie that it is. That Osteopathy is one of the great medical truths of all time is evidenced by the fact that its theory and practices have remained untarnished, undiluted, and undiminished since they were first enunciated nearly a century ago.

The Big Truth of Osteopathy is that it works. The Big Truth is that millions of our patients over the years have been helped through distinctively osteopathic care. The Big Truth is that Osteopathy today is accepted by more people, more social, political, governmental and scientific organizations than ever before. The Big Truth is that Osteopathy, far from disappearing from the scene through amalgamation, integration or fraternization with the MD, is going ahead with expansion of its hospital and educational facilities. The Big Truth is that Osteopathy is, was and always will be a unified system of diagnosis and therapy based upon fundamental truths that unmask and reveal further basic truths with the passing of time and with each new piece of research. The Big Truth is that Osteopathy is stronger organizationally today than it has been for many years. The Big Truth is that it will remain strong and continue to grow precisely because it is TRUE.

Washington News Letters

King-Anderson Bill. Hearings on H. R. 3920 were resumed by the House Ways and Means Committee on January 20th, and completed on January 24th. The Committee is expected to meet on the bill the latter part of February. Enclosed is copy of AOA statement submitted for the record in the hearings. The statement contains no reference to the relation of the Kerr-Mills program, principally because we received no response to our request for YOUR COMMENTS ON THE KERR-MILLS PROGRAM IN YOUR STATE, IF ANY. See WNL for November 7, 1963. If the bill passes the House it will probably be necessary for us to make a comprehensive statement to the Senate Finance Committee, so we would like any comments from you in the meantime. The Kerr-Mills program is effective in 28 States. Some Kerr-Mills amendments suggested during the hearings were that a claimant's oath as to his financial status be accepted in lieu of a means test, and that State family responsibility laws be made inapplicable because they deter the applicant and necessitate multiple financial investigations prior to treatment or hospitalization.

Hospital Grant Applications. On January 23rd, the Senate approved a bill, S. 855, which provides that after June 30, 1965, any proposals for Federal loans and grants for construction of hospitals in any metropolitan area, including such programs as the Hill-Burton and the Area Redevelopment Act, must be passed-on by local area planning agencies prior to formal application. Although the planning agency would not be authorized to veto the project, its blessing or opposition would carry great weight. This assumes extra importance in view of the President's recommendation that Congress enlarge the Hill-Burton program to include hospital modernization in metropolitan areas. From time to time we have stressed the importance of manifestation of active osteopathic interest in local area-wide planning agencies. We do not know how wide-spread your good rapport with the planning agencies may be. We have sounded the tocsin hopefully.

Narcotic Report. The President's Commission on Narcotics and Drug Abuse has recommended dissolution of the Treasury Department's Bureau of Narcotics and transfer of its functions to the Department of Justice and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The final report (released January 24th), also recommends that Federal regulations be amended to reflect the general principle that the definition of legitimate medical use of narcotic drugs and legitimate medical treatment of a narcotic addict are primarily to be determined by the medical profession.

March 3, 1964

H. R. 12 Advisory Council Appointed. HEW Secretary, Anthony J. Celebrezze announced today the appointment of the National Advisory Council on Education for Health Professions, including Dr. C. Robert Starks, orthopedic surgeon of Denver, as the osteopathic representative.

Dr. Starks is well equipped to serve on the Council. He is past president of the AOA and Colorado Osteopathic Association. A former member of the AOA Bureau of Professional Education and Colleges 1946-54; Chairman, AOA Committee on Educational Standards 1952; Chairman, AOA Osteopathic Progress Fund Committee 1946-51; and member of the Board of Trustees of KCOS 1955-61, he is experienced in college surveys, standards, fund raising, and administration.

The Committee will advise the Surgeon General on the preparation of general regulations, policy matters, and review of application grants for construction of new teaching facilities or the replacement or rehabilitation of existing facilities in schools of osteopathy, and other health professions named in the Act, (Public Law 88-129).

The Act provides for a total construction authorization of $175 million over a 3-year period beginning with fiscal year 1964. According to testimony before the Senate Appropriations Committee this morning, a large number of schools have already indicated their intent to apply for construction assistance under this program. Letters have been received by the Government from 70 medical schools and 5 osteopathic schools estimating cost of construction at $638 million. Of this number, 15 are for completely new schools. Projects will be approved on the basis of relative need after review by and recommendation of the Council. The first meeting of the Council has been tentatively scheduled for April 9-10, at which time regulations including priorities are expected to be approved.

Hill-Burton. H. R. 10041, a bill to revise and expand the Hill-Burton program will be the subject of hearings before the House Committee on March 9th. The bill generally follows the draft submitted by the President on February 10th. It will extend the program for another 5 years to June 30, 1969. It includes a new program of grants earmarked for modernization of hospitals and other health facilities in urban areas. It proposes a new program of Federal mortgage insurance to enable private non-profit hospitals, nursing homes and other medical facilities, to finance matching funds, and to assist proprietary nursing homes in financing the cost of construction.

The provision for "separate but equal" facilities which appears in the current Act does not appear in this rewrite under H. R. 10041. Yesterday, the U. S. Supreme Court refused to review the U. S. Court of Appeals decision in the North Carolina case of Simkins vs. Cohn, 323-F 2D-959, holding that a hospital financed by Federal AND State funds may not racially discriminate as to staff members and use of facilities.

STATE NEWS

The Texas Association of Osteopathic Physicians Assistants held a meeting February 23, 1964, in the Western Hills Inn, Euless, Texas. Dr. Richard L. Stratton of Cuero and Dr. L. G. Ballard of Fort Worth met with our representatives and completed our Constitution and State By-Laws. We are happy to say the meeting was highly successful.

We were more than pleased to have a number of assistants from Dallas and surrounding towns participate in the meeting. We are now in the final process of becoming affiliated with the Texas Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

ATTENTION—Definite plans have been made for our 1964 Annual State Convention to be held July 18-19 in the Hotel Adolphus, Dallas, Texas. Start making plans to attend!

Lena Huddleston, Odell Machin, and Oletta Warren attended the state meeting in Fort Worth, February 23rd. They gave a most interesting and thorough report at our March meeting.

The March meeting was held at Community Hospital, Inc. Geigy Pharmaceutical Company presented a film, "Faces of Depression." Plans are being made for the convention and our convention booth.

DISTRICT TWELVE (Port Arthur, Texas)

The regular monthly meeting of the S.O.P.A. was held on March 17, at the Retail Merchants Association of Port Arthur. Mr. Faulkner, Manager, and Mrs. Lane, Assistant Manager, presented a very informative program on how the Retail Merchants Credit Association can better serve the doctors' offices with collections, written credit reports, helping to locate patients' relatives, getting out of town reports for new patients and many more informative issues.

We were very sorry that we did not have a larger turn-out, but those who did attend profited very much by this meeting.

NEWS OF THE DISTRICTS

District No. One

District I wishes to express deepest sympathy to District 10 and the family of Dr. Ed Davidson, for his recent and untimely death. Those of us who knew Ed in school and later years admired him for his honesty and integrity.

The district was visited by our State President, Dr. Loren Rohr, who gave us a most interesting and down-to-earth talk on "Our" business over the state. It was a great pleasure to have him with us. Also, our wives enjoyed the visit of Mrs. Dorothea Clark, State Auxiliary President.

Our Thursday afternoon weather continues to prevent our golf enthusiasts from showing their best.

We were happy to see and visit with Dr. David Levy who is interning in Fort Worth.

See you in next month's Journal!

District No. Three

Below is a copy of the newspaper release on District Three's latest meeting, March 21, at which our president, Dr. Loren Rohr, ably presented the current picture of the osteopathic world. It was not accepted by the Tyler papers. Too "controversial," it seems.

Dr. Rohr was introduced by Dr. George Grainger. Dr. Robert Slye, president of District Three, presided.

Considering the competition given by Fort Worth in their coincident Child Health Conference and G.P. meeting, the attendance of District Three doctors, and their wives was most reassuring. One lovely wife not mentioned in the article was Mrs. Loren Rohr. She was indeed a gracious and charming complement to the male element at the head table.

This meeting was an attendance ex-ment in that it was moved up from Sunday afternoon to Saturday night. Other meetings this year will be held likewise. The May meeting will be held in Athens.

Osteopathic Doctors Hear State President Speak Here

Dr. Loren Rohr, president of Texas Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, discussed state and national problems at a meeting of East Texas osteopathic physicians and surgeons.

The meeting which was held recently at the Holiday Inn in Tyler was attended by 35 district members and their wives.

Chief among the topics was the successful resistance of Texas and U.S. osteopaths to overtures instigated by the American Medical Association in offering them M.D. degrees.

"This," the speaker said, "along with offer of 'amalgamation' with the AMA goes to an attempt to do away with the osteopathic school of medical practice."

Attending were Dr. and Mrs. John Turner of Canton, Dr. and Mrs. William Hanna of Chandler, Dr. and Mrs. William Clark of Whitehouse, Dr. and Mrs. Carl List of Troup, Dr. and Mrs. Anton Lester of Frankston, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Kinzie of Lindale, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. McCorkle of Mineola, Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith of Jacksonville, Drs. G. W. Taylor and Palmore Curry of Mount Pleasant.

Lynch, Dr. and Mrs. Bowden Beaty, Dr. and Mrs. Brady K. Fleming, Dr. and Mrs. George Grainger and son, Jack, Dr. and Mrs. Loy Sanders and Dr. K. E. Ross, all of Tyler.

In addition to being state association president, Dr. Rohr has been president of the Texas group of general practitioners and president of the Houston district osteopathic society. Last year Dr. Rohr was named General Practitioner of the Year by the national body of osteopathic general practitioners, meeting in Miami Beach.

Your reporter was walking down the hall of Coats-Brown Hospital recently, looking for Dr. Beaty. Just as he reached his office door a nurse scurried by holding a cake high in her hands, and went in. Behind the closed door he then heard a celebration, starting off with, "Happy Birthday to You." The date was March 24. Beaty is only 47, but he doesn't look a day over 50. That was a nice thing for all those busy nurses and office personnel to do, wasn't it?

Your reporter got his name in the paper, and two pictures, this week, on pure ability. The pictures were a couple of his drawings, which have been on display at a Tyler art center, among others done by Tyler Junior College students. Grainger attends night classes, once a week.

District No. Six

Dr. Ralph I. McRae, a specialist in psychiatry, from Dallas, under the auspices of Doctors' Hospital, spoke on "Neurotic Reaction of Marriage" March 10, 1964 to a group of staff members from all the osteopathic hospitals in the Houston area, at the Airline National Bank Building, 5206 Airline Dr. He also spoke on "The Management of The Neurotic Patient in General Practice." He covered the differential diagnosis between neurotic and psychotic individuals. The meeting was well attended.

Dr. McRae spoke of the basis of psychiatric consultation with the G.P. or Surgeon and the great need for co-operation. The length of time needed for mental health treatment or help for the mental patient may be brief or it may take a matter of years to effect a cure.

Dr. Gordon McClimans stated the high point of Dr. McRae's lecture was discovering the exceptional but ever-present patient who will conduct the physician through the examination rather than the physician directing the patient . . . Much like the woman who leads in the "Home Sweet Home" waltz and about as thrilling to leader or Doctor.

Our regular district meeting was held March 2, in the Sheraton-Lincoln Hotel. Dr. Farrar, a psychologist of this city, spoke on "What is Your Mental Ailment?" The meeting was well attended and all were enthusiastic that they had learned something useful in their practices, and its many problems.

Another interesting item is the possibility of a new Psychiatric Hospital in the Dallas area for osteopathic medical treatment of mental ailments.

From what we have observed this has been a "Mental" month!
